Hi! Sorry we already took it down, but I am attaching an old photo with it in the background.

Basically, our set-up was a bed in the corner and a vertical and horizontal tension rods placed. I forgot to mention that the rods also comes with hooks you can snap into place so we could place the horizontal one connected to the vertical one. We then had a curtain on the horizontal one, and a curtain attached to the end of the horizontal one on one end and attached to a command hook on the wall on the other end. This way the bed can be completely enclosed. Also I believe I have more extender rods in the box to make the rods even longer if necessary. I'll attach photos of the rods and curtains taken down rn. Also, I didn't expect to receive this many ppl interested, I am offering people a chance to raise their bid once if they want, if not I will just sell based on whoever emailed first.

Below are the exact products I bought from Amazon (2 each)

Best,
Devin
